Graduate Program Global Mobility Services

Global mobility is about companies moving their employees around the world. This gives rise to all sorts of considerations, including how these mobile people are taxed, what is the best way to structure compensation and assets to reduce tax and how the individuals and their employer comply with the various income tax and social security laws in force around the world. Our Graduate Program has been designed to bring new talent into our practice to ensure that we remain the best at what we do.

Location: Zurich
Start date: 1 October 2017

Your responsibilities

• Participate in a formal on-boarding program where, in your first year, you will rotate through different parts of our business and be exposed to everything we do
• Have client contact and responsibilities from day one
• Benefit from substantial investment in your development through a mix of dedicated training sessions and on-the-job learning
• Have the potential to go on an international assignment early in your career

Your profile

• A strong academic record (Master or Bachelor degree) – it doesn’t matter what you studied as long as working within tax and global mobility interest you
• A proven ability to work in an international and multicultural setting
• Good German and English language skills (minimum C1 level or excellent B2)
• Ambition to succeed with the desire to work as part of a multi-cultural and forward-looking team

Your future team

Our Global Mobility Services team, comprised of over 100 team members, focusses on all aspects of mobility including tax compliance and advisory and providing support to our clients’ HR and Tax teams. We also manage global KPMG services to many of the largest Swiss headquartered companies and have developed leading edge technology solutions for not just the Swiss, but the global market. Working in a truly international environment, being part of a young and dynamic team that is recognized as a global leader and having diverse career opportunities – this is what you will be part of if you join KPMG’s Global Mobility Services team. You will be backed by a team that is focused on your success and the success of our wider team.
